Dear Steve:

On July 3, 1996, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., you convened a mediation session in what had become this year's version of the "case from hell". Approximately 18 hours later (4:30 a.m. on July 4, 1996 to be exact), you announced the matter had been successfully resolved. In retrospect, I must confess that I had zero confidence in your ability to successfully mediate the dispute. Your success in this one case speaks volumes at your mediation skills, not to mention your patience and capacity to persevere.

The above-described success did not come without a price. I arrived home exhausted at 6:30 a.m. and missed completely planned 4th of July festivities. In fact, I am not certain that I have ever fully recovered from your mediation genius.

You may use this personal note as a letter of reference or recommendation, albeit untraditional. If, however, you prefer a more traditional presentation, there will be a delay while I try to recall something nice to say about you and your methods.

Very truly yours,

DANIEL A. GAMER
